In the United States and the majority of Western European countries, a black cat crossing your path is considered a harbinger of bad things. However, in the UK and Japan, superstition is quite the opposite, black cat is a good omen. Even the direction in which the cat walks can be important. It's time to say goodbye to the Ladies of Litchfield. On July 26, Netflix released the seventh and final season of its hit series, Orange is the New Black, ending its six-year career. While the ending brought the conclusion to a series of stories, there are still a lot of questions, such as how the show got its name in the first place. Cast and Crew of Orange is the New Black | The photo is based by Jason LaVeris/FilmMagic Orange is the New Black on the book and the prison drama is based on the real experiences of Eber Kerman. In the show, Kerman piper Chapman is known (played by Taylor Schilling). In 2010, Karman published a memoir of the same name. The show is not docudrama, but the premise of the series resembles the experience of Karman: she met a woman who turned her into a drug trafficking, but he eventually catches her. She ends up pleading guilty to drug trafficking and money laundering before being sentenced to prison. Why Orange is the New Black ends as they say, it must all end, and it seems at the time for the Netflix series. After seven seasons, it's time to release us from prison. I will miss all the bada* ladies from Litchfield and the incredible crew we've worked with, show creator Genji Cohan said in an October 2018 statement (via deadline). My heart is orange but fading to black and actress Beth Dover, who plays the controversial Linda Ferguson, explained the details of the decision to end the show in a July 16 interview with PopCulture.com, telling the site: I felt the right time. I think Genji always wanted seven seasons. You can finish it at seven, and as much as I love to keep doing it forever and forever, it just felt like the right time to do it, Dover explained. But don't go down too much around it. There is a chance that the show will get a sequel series lionsgate TV group president Kevin Bates told the Hollywood Reporter in November 2018 that Lionsgate is thinking about one, but the timing must be right. Season 7 is wild and we won't spoil it for those who haven't seen it, but there's a lot going on in Season 7. As you probably know, season six ended with Chapman being released from prison and now she has to go back to the community but it's not that easy and she makes copies in an office, meets with a drug probation officer, and struggles to make friends. Meanwhile, the women from Litchfield are dealing with Rigor from prison life. Some deal with recent judgments, the quads, the loss, and more. Chapman's wife, Alex Voss (Laura Prepon) even seems to be struggling with something. One scene from the trailer shows Fighting tears while talking to Chapman. It's good to see you, you tell Chapman through tears. Again, Season 7 is now available. So grab your popcorn and your tissues, and get ready for one final dose of drama. Photo credit: TechRadar (credit image: future) Black Shark 2 has been out for some time, but the new shadow has just been launched and is called 'Blue Glory'. Arguably this model is more interesting and certainly more striking than the black and silver shades that you can already get the phone in, and it's the same price at £479 (about $600/AU $860), which gets you 8GB of RAM and 128GB of storage. In fact, the specs and design are the same as previous models, and while you can get the Black Shark 2 in a version that contains 12GB of RAM and 256GB of storage, the Glory Blue model is not available in this configuration. With vent construction, integrated chip heat sink, and internal fan, this thing is designed to keep your 2 black shark cool during intense gaming sessions. The case even has its own 700mAh battery, so you don't need to pull power from the phone and can act optionally as a battery pack to help keep your 2 black shark charged. Finally, the Black Shark Portable Toy Kit is also now on sale. Costing £79.99 (about $100/AU$145), this includes two black shark and stand platforms, which can turn into an independent wireless pro controller, which - when paired with USB-C to HDMI cable - you can use it for the game on your TV or screen. Check out the best phones for rabbit games with limited color vision, but they are able to distinguish color and don't see colors only in black and white. Rabbits lack the ability to see red, but can see shades of green, yellow and blue. In animals such as rabbits, color is seen by special cells in the eye that are able to absorb specific wavelengths of light and relay that information to the brain. Humans have three different groups of these cells, called conical cells. Human cone cells capture shades of red, blue, yellow and green, respectively. Rabbits seem to have only two different types of cones. They are able to capture blue light and green light, but other colors are simply not absorbed, so they are seen as gray. After all, when the black and white basics land on each wardrobe printlist (included us), the meme color palette reminding us can feel a bit disappointing. But, we say that this should not be the case. Instead of writing a love letter to B and W (which we can) can, it has been taken to clarify its defence of the plural.
